Admiral Greene is Welcomed Aboard!

Hurricane Earl didn't disrupt a well-attended Parents Weekend that offered excellent weather, visits from Maritime officials, the introduction of a new Superintendent, plenty of food, successful athletic contests, an exciting Beat Retreat with the Regimental Band, an Acceptance Day Ceremony, and most important of all, time for parents from all across the nation to visit with their midshipmen.

Distinguished Chapter Award for Colorado

Due to an unfortunate technology problem on the USMMA campus, Colorado's Distinguished Chapter Award points were not received in the National Parent Association office. The mistake was discovered and the USMMA National Parent Association Executive Board awarded the Colorado Chapter their Distinguished Chapter Award shortly afterward. The USMMA Parent Association apologizes for any inconvenience and will be announcing the award in the upcoming national newsletter. Thanks to Colorado for all their hard work on behalf of our academy and our midshipmen.

Please consider making cookies for Cookie Cafe. See <http://kpcookiecafe.com/> Colorado has Oct. 7th and they would like to have the cookies arrive before Oct. 1. If you haven't done it in the past, the US Postal Service large flat rate Priority Mail box ($14) is a great way to go. You can get about 10 - 15 dozen in the box, depending on the size of the cookies. They will arrive 2-3 days from when you mail them. The preferred way to package them and where to send the cookies is on <http://kpcookiecafe.com/shipping.html>. Please let Christine Neil (sew4th@hotmail.com) know how many dozen cookies you will send. We need about 12 people to make 10 dozen cookies. If we send more than this goal, the extra cookies are saved frozen, for future Cookie Cafe days when something happens with the postage or baking--they are never wasted (and the plebe class is larger this year, too!) Today we got an email saying there is also a need this year for donations to pay for the milk, paper supplies and other things. A complete explanation is on the first page of the web site. A $6 -10 contribution from each family will cover the needs for the year. Please read the site about the situation <http://kpcookiecafe.com/>.

October 23 is the tentative date for the Annual October meeting. Time and location will be announced via e-mail soon.

President's Conference report from the USMMA Parent's Association Regional VP's for Colorado, Wyoming and Utah

By Mike and Jan Mussler

Mike and I had the pleasure of attending the Parent's Association President's Conference on Weds. Sept. 1, 2010 for Colorado, Wyoming and Utah. Though there were warnings of trouble with Hurricane Earl, the day and Parent's Weekend weather was perfect.

We also had the pleasure of meeting Rear Admiral Phillip H. Greene, Jr., the new USMMA superintendent. Phil is a classmate of Mike's, both alumni from the KP Class of 1978. Follow this link to read the distinguished biography of Rear Admiral Greene. http://www.marad.dot.gov/news_room_landing_page/news_releases_summary/news_release/MARAD_15_10USMMA_Superintendant_release.htm. The Admiral feels called to be at Kings Point. Not only is he articulate, he was very prepared to meet the challenges at Kings Point. Although he had only been on duty for two days at the time of the President's conference, his research of the issues at KP was evident.

Admiral Greene cites three executive priorities: 1) Efforts for modernization, sustainability and renovation at KP. 2) No operation in a silo – working with Washington to appropriate funds; 3) Rebuild our identity within the Maritime industry. His modernization and renovation goals include: 1) Update labs, classrooms, simulators, fieldhouse – Mallory Pier, Cleveland Hall, Rogers Hall, Delano Galley; 2) Attract the best faculty; 3) Remain on the leading edge; 4) Catch up on deferred maintenance; 5) Improve infrastructure; 6) Get a bigger budget from MARAD which means building credibility, trust and confidence with MARAD; 7) Enrichment of programs through private funds; 8) Core learning enhanced through properly appropriated public funds Kings Point suffers from an identity problem and goals to correct that include: 1) Ensure a tough, vigorous academic program; 2) Development KP as the preeminent institution for maritime leaders; 3) Develop economic vitality for KP; 4) Link KP directly to the maritime industry; 5) Develop KP as the National treasure or Crown Jewell it is (this term was used by MARAD many times throughout the weekend); 6) Communicate who we are by leveraging Blogs, YouTube, Webcast; 7) Support institutional research by faculty – do not have this now.

Budget goals for Kings Point include the enrichment of program through private funds and to institutionalize process change. Challenges that exist at Kings Point include: There is Governance Board which is supposed to visit KP annually but has not for 14 years; the Advisory Board, meets annually but the charter is unknown; the GMAT's professional program and athletics are both issues for funding because USMMA is federally regulated so they cannot currently accept private funds in the manner most academic institutions can.

In spite of challenges, there are now opportunities available for improvement at KP. For the first time, KP now has an assigned lawyer to help the superintendent. For the first time ever, there is funding for recruitment. There is now a separate equipment budget and the Parent's Page link is moved to the alumni site to allow more freedom with what can be posted.

Dr. Shashi Kumar was thanked for his efforts as the interim superintendent during the past two superintendent searches. In his remarks regarding retention he stated: The average institutional grade point average is 2.89m up from 2008; Helping students who need academic assistance is key to retention and improved GPA; There were fewer setbacks in 2010 (5% versus 7% in 2008); There were fewer students on academic alert in 2010 (409 versus 445 in 2008); Disenrollment – 2010 – Less than 1% (versus 2% in 2009.) Dr. Kumar also gave these statistics for placement: All but five students in the class of 2010 have found employment as follows: 2 – Shore side industry jobs; 2- Ashore jobs; 0 – Grad school; 29% - Active armed forces; 59% - Sailing; 1% - Foreign flag ships; 1% - Shipyard. By the year 2015, there will be a shortage of 27,000 officers and 32,000 by the year 2020. There were 30 students in the Class of 2010 who had deficiencies for graduation. More than half of those have cleared the deficiencies. For some, the deficiency is as minor as needing to complete a two page internship report.

Faculty hiring – Last June, some faculty hires were made after a long dry spell. There have been several retirements. Salary is OK for an educational institution but low to attract a mariner. Also, the area around Kings Point is an expensive one to live in.

Mel Tublin (USMMA '49), National Alumni Foundation Legislative Action Chair spoke on efforts to secure a Professional Liaison for Kings Point to gain access to congressman and senators to speak about Kings Point. Secretary La Hood supports Kings Point and $100 M is earmarked for KP.

USAA insurance representative M.J. Sweeney gave these tips. Your Kings Point student can be taken off your USAA auto insurance but will still be covered when home on school breaks. She also talked about "The Loan" from USAA ($32,000 at 1.5 % interest rate). This signature loan is designed to help officers start their career without debt. Repayment starts the August after graduation. Navy Federal Credit Union has a similar program. USAA offers a renter's policy at a low premium that covers losses while attending Kings Point.

They knew they were both from Colorado but recently through a mutual Facebook friend, they discovered they were serious high school rivals - especially (2A) football, (3A) basketball (boys & girls), (3A) baseball, (3A) softball, etc. This year Holy Family moved up to 3A for football so the rivalry has cooled a bit. A notice to the Regiment

Regiment,

I want to commend you all for superior performance at the various events this past week. It was a busy schedule for the Regiment and you executed across the board smartly. At each and every event I was impressed by your presentation, decorum and energized spirit. Many thanks to the USMMA Band and others from the Regiment for your tremendous "Beat Retreat" performance. Your hard work and hours of practice were evident by the quality of the performance. It was a highlight for our visiting parents! Additionally, I know that VADM Debbink, Chief of the Navy Reserve, enjoyed his first visit to KP and left with a clear sense of the value of Kings Point and its talented midshipmen. I was honored he could swear our Plebes into the Navy Reserve and serve as the reviewing officer for Saturday's Formal Parade. You made me proud. Finally, USMMA had a clean sweep in sports this weekend with our Soccer, Volleyball and Football teams achieving victory. All our teams played with passion, stamina and fierce determination to win...from start to finish. Our Mariner football team clinched their victory in the final seconds of the game proving that it's never over until the clock runs out. There is no doubt that you made the Parents' Weekend experience a meaningful and memorable one for our many visitors. I know Mrs. Greene joins me in expressing to all a hearty "Well Done!"

Respectfully,
Rear Admiral Greene,
Superintendent

Notes from our Mids

Well, all I can say is it has been a very exciting ride! Twelve months ago our son Nicholas Skogen (2014) was entrenched in the application process for Academy nominations. My wife Chris and I can't say enough about how grateful we are for all the direction, guidance, encouragement and support Nick received from Dick and Tricia Sargent. Without them, I'm convinced we would be in a very different situation today. Nick was born to attend the USMMA and that was evident this summer as we were fortunate enough to attend Acceptance Weekend with our entire family.

Nick's fascination with the Marines began when he was about ten years old. He wanted us to send him off to some Military School he found on the internet in Kansas! About that same time we heard about the Young Marines, a Youth Organization that focuses on leadership, leading a drug free lifestyle and service to others. There was an active unit right in our hometown of Aurora, the Buckley Field Young Marines. Over the next seven years, Nick excelled in the YM's obtaining the highest rank in his unit and was even selected as Young Marine of the Year for Division Four in 2008-2009. Only six are chosen for this honor nationally each year, one for each of the six divisions.

Over the Acceptance Weekend we basked in exceptionally, and as I understand, unusually dry weather despite traveling to the east coast just hours prior to the anticipated arrival of Hurricane Earl! I have to say I was a bit disappointed to say the least in my first ever hurricane experience!

We enjoyed touring the scenic USMMA campus and sitting in on Nick's first period Maritime Prof Studies class with Professor Arain. Who would have known there is such a thing as ladder etiquette for boarding a vessel! Kudos to all the students for standing up through the entire period so the more mature learners could occupy your seats.

The football against Gallaudet was one of the most exciting finishes I've ever witnessed and we had a lot of fun at the Plebes expense as they stood for the entire game and made several dashes to the end zone to push. On Saturday we proceeded directly to Benihana's in Manhasset for a "good meal" and encountered several other snowy white Plebes all brimming with hope and a bit of relief.

Chris and I especially want to express our gratitude to the Parents Association for all the valuable tips we took from all of you who have gone before us and graciously shared your experiences. We found we were well prepared for the weekend's events and what to expect, it truly put us at ease from the start.

Sea Year by Linda Schmidt (Kathryn, 2013B) of Colorado Springs, CO

MV Maunawili at port in Long Beach, CA.

Sea Year is the exciting mystery of Kings Point.

No two midshipmen have the same experience. My daughter, Katie, is a “deckie.” She was SO EXCITED to be assigned to her container ship, MV Maunawili, from the Matson Company, www.matson.com on the route from Long Beach, CA to Honolulu, Hawaii to Guam to 3 ports in China (Xiamen, Ningbo, Shanghai) and express (10 days) back to California. As a B-splitter, she spent this summer and first trimester at sea, and will come back for second trimester (in time for swimming and diving season). She will get a new assignment(s) for 3/c third trimester, summer, and first trimester of 2/c year. From 4 July to 30 October she has a berth on this ship with her own shower and bathroom. No worries about finding lodging in any port—she just goes back to the ship to sleep when she is ready. The port hole of the berth is in the middle of the ship, right above the pink covered lifeboat. We mostly communicate by email, as the ship sends and receives it while in open waters twice daily.

On Right, Cadets in their first port of Honolulu, HI. Ben is in his movie star, surfer-dude role. Katie is updating friends.

They got to be in this port for 2 full days. They are leaving for their third time right now. So, they spent 6 days total in Hawaii. The crew is small for this ship, so everyone gets to know one another. They had one crew for their first trip and a completely new one for the next trip (except for the electrician who has been on all three). They had 2 captains to work under. Katie gets her directions mainly from the Chief Mate, and she has had three different bosses!

Guam This is a small island with only one slip for commercial ships. Guam has a US Naval Base and US Air Force base. Last trip Katie visited both. She and Ben rented a car and explored a lot. They got 1 day each trip in this port. Katie and Ben's Route is shown above in yellow arrows. Ports they visit include: Honolulu, Guam, Xiamen, Ningbo, Shanghai.

Hong Kong On the second trip they got a bonus trip to Hong Kong, to pick up some empty containers.

CHINA! Xiamen, Ningbo and Shanghai

Xiamen, China is above. Many people said “Hi” in English to Katie on the streets and she spoke back in Chinese both “How are you” and “Thank you”. She had fun! Negotiating prices for tea was a highlight.

SEA PROJECT

Sea Project takes up spare time on the ship. The first Captain helped Katie with some assignments on the bridge for navigation using the sextant. He showed her tips and tricks of using it. Her second Captain really helped her understand the crew interrelationships and dynamics. The second Chief Mate was nearing retirement and allowed Katie to do ALL of the deck jobs. He even let her prepare for and participate in a company internal inspection! The Matson company inspectors were both KP grads who let Katie shadow nearly the entire inspection. She was thankful for that experience. A definite highlight was steering the ship. She said, “A mile at sea seems a lot closer than a mile on land,” when going around another vessel. The Chief Mate said the goal was “not to let the Captain’s coffee slide off his desk!” J Katie and Ben will have 111 Sea Days.

It is vast and beautiful. Katie was admiring the shoreline of Korea as the ship passed through some Straits near Japan.
